No other fabric evokes 19th century America more than an indigo cotton. Indigo - the color of ink on paper; the color of denim; the color of the star covered flag - it's as crisp and clean as a spring morning.

Our collection of indigos are taken from our own collection and snippets and scraps from sewing baskets and linen cupboards. We love the geometric beauty of blue and white. Freshly laundered and smelling of lavender, an indigo and white quilt is true comfort.
